2. Administration of medication (Calcium, Oxytocin, Antibiotics)

Definition of a litter: The female owner must notify the stud dog owner when the litter is born. A litter consists of one puppy that lives at least 72 hours. If no pups live past 72 hrs, a return service will be provided by either the same stud or of the same caliper.

Puppy with defects: Any puppy born with genetic or congenital defects must be humanely euthanized by a licensed veterinarian (example is cleft palate).

No pregnancy: If the female is not pregnant, this should be confirmed by x-rays immediately prior to the due date for the litter. (Often a litter of 1 or 2 pups will not make a female appear pregnant. X-rays very late in the pregnancy will not harm the pups.) If the female is not pregnant and the owners elect for her to return on her next cycle arrangements will be made for a return stud service to any male of the same caliper we provide.

*By signing this contract, I agree to sign and furnish any papers or information needed to register these pups with the American Canine Association or the American Kennel Club Association.
